Gary Moore Stratocaster Artist Series

Gary Moore was famed for playing guitars from all kinds of brands, from Gibson to Charvel and Ibanez, but during the 80s, his pride and joy was a 1961 Fiesta Red Stratocaster, which Fender Custom Shop has now got hold of and reproduced down to the last detail.

Since we're on the topic of Gary Moore and Fender Strats, be sure to check out the Fender Custom Shop's Limited Edition Gary Moore Stratocaster, which was designed and built by Fender Masterbuilder John Cruz. Moore's guitar was close to "stock," including the original-spec low-output pickups and traditional three-way pickup switch.

In 2013, Gibson announced a new Gary Moore Signature Les Paul, modeled after the "Greeny" guitar. On Corridors of Power and Victims of the Future, Moore used a 1961 Fiesta Red Fender Stratocaster, which had previously belonged to Tommy Steele. In 2017, Fender Custom Shop released a limited edition replica based on Moore's model.
